Examination and study regulations

The examination and study regulations set out the general framework and rules of the degree programme as well as the legal framework. In the study regulations you will find, among other things, information on the start of the degree programme, standard period of study, structure of the degree programme, description of the study objectives or admission requirements for individual courses.

The examination and study regulations are divided into two parts: The General Regulations (PStO-AB), which apply to all degree programmes, and the Special Regulations (PStO-BB), which apply to a specific degree programme.
